

FREE WELL WATER TESTING

The Four Corners States Biomonitoring Consortium, in conjunction with the Utah Department of Health is offering biomonitoring and well water testing for heavy metals

The Utah Department of Health and Four Corners States Biomonitoring Consortium are conducting a study to determine how the body metabolizes certain heavy metals found in drinking water. We are looking for participants who consume water from privately owned wells in Utah. We will be in the Vernal area in May 2018. If interested, volunteers will be asked to answer a brief survey to assess exposures and to give a water and urine sample which will be tested for heavy metals. All testing is provided free of charge and results will be mailed to each participant.

If interested contact:

Jackson Geary or Kerry Miley at 801-965-2567 or kmiley@utah.gov.

Space is limited to 20 participants.
